

In political, as well as in love affairs, many a fellow has found to his sorrow that it is best not to write letters. Eleven years ago the Hon. W. E. Russell was a roaring Bourbon democrat of the strongest proclivities. So ultra was he that he denounced the 14th amendment "as a product of force and fraud which should be gotten rid of in a lawful way," and promised if elected to the Legislature to which he was then aspiring, that he would use every effort to keep the laws of Kentucky as they were in regard to the negro. The question seems to have been agitated as to whether negroes and other republicans should vote at the primary election approaching. Mr. Russell, in his card which was published in the Lebanon Standard, strongly objected to them being allowed to vote and said: "I would rather be defeated by negro and radical votes than to be elected by them; and if elected by them I will not serve." The whirligig of time brings some wondrous changes, but none have yet appeared more wonderful than the change that has come over the spirit of Mr. Russell's political dream. He longs for those self-same "negro and radical" votes now as the "hart paneth after the water brook," but it is hardly probable that they will come to his rescue when they remember his efforts to deprive them of the rights guaranteed them by the law. No, no, Mr. Russell will be elected by a big majority to remain in Lebanon, while Judge Lewis goes in triumph as his own successor to the appellate bench.

When the resolution to endorse the action of the State Central Committee in refusing to withdraw Capt. Henry from the race for Appellate Clerk, was presented to the Convention at Danville last week, Judge Breckinridge's opposition to it was based on the grounds that as the delegates had been sent there for a specific purpose, they had no right in their delegated capacity to act further than instructed to do by the people. Judge Breckinridge's position is the true one. There is too much of this endorsing business by politicians, and we doubt if in the long run such action results in good. The people are the proper ones to endorse, if it must be done, and they will not feel themselves bound in any other way. Judge Breckinridge is for Capt. Henry and so are we, but we are opposed to this unending endorsing business.

CONGRESS is fast getting to be a real circus. Hardly a day passes without a disgraceful scene, and it is reserved for the Hon. Ben Butterworth of Ohio, to outdo the former actors in disgusting vulgarity. His allusion was to Sunset Cox, who retorted that his remark was that of a blackguard and that it would disgrace even a bar room. "A man who would use such an expression, if he does not deserve such expulsion from the House, deserves, at least, to be kept severely at home. He had made his coarse allusion, too, in the presence of ladies, and his own party of moral ideas had seen fit to applaud it."

In the great and moral State of Ohio 127 persons were tried for homicide in its various degrees during the year ending with last month and yet strange to say not a single execution occurred. Still the good deacon of the Cincinnati Gazette finds the laxity of the administration of the laws in Kentucky an ever fruitful subject for comment, when he might occasionally speak of how matters are "to hum."

MR. DAN. E. O'SULLIVAN, who entered journalism with his eye fixed on the topmost round of the ladder, is ascending it two rungs at a step. From the Commonwealth department of the Courier-Journal he has succeeded to numerous other positions till now he occupies one of the most responsible, that of City Editor, and he is performing its duties most admirably.

It seems to be capable of proof that the officers and employees of the Scioto, which collided on the Ohio river with the Mingo, causing the death of nearly a hundred 4th of July excursionists, were drunk. Every man of them should be tried at once, and if it can be established that they were, the death penalty is far too good for them.

JUDGE HARRIS' wife presented him with a boy the other night, on which occasion the great and good Governor acted as accoucheur. We suppose he felt more at home than he has for the last three years.

The Glasgow Times says that the Jacob bolt in that neck of the woods is in no danger of being mistaken for a thunder-bolt. Same here.

JOHN D. WHITE, who by double dealing has ousted Col. A. M. Swope from the Collectorship, now wishes to obtain the influence of the administration to prevent Hon. W. O. Bradley from running for Congress in this district. He says in a letter to Arthur that Hon. John Bennett, of Richmond, is the only man in this district that can be elected, and if "nominated" he will accept, not to be voted for as a figure-head in order to dance attendance at Washington for a Federal appointment, but will pull to win; besides he has the pluck, push and ability, coupled with character and relationship, of which we as a party in Kentucky so sadly stand in need. Beside, Bradley has run for Congress twice and failed by less than 800 votes the first time and more than 2,500 the last time; yet he would try it again, and McKee favors his nomination. John D. is evidently jealous of the "figure-head" who is as much superior to him intellectually and socially as the sun is above the moon.

OSCAR WILDE has a colored servant who travels with him. Down in Georgia the other day, he demanded that the negro should be given a berth in the same sleeping car with himself, and stubbornly persisted in the demand until told that if it were allowed a mob would seize the train at the next station and tear master and servant to pieces. Oscar did not wish to have his aesthetic legs torn from his body, and therefore agreed to let the negro go forward to another car.

It may tickle an editor to have the patent-plate publishers clip from him, but we should not think Ditoe was extremely happy to have his inside quote and give credit to his outside, as was the case in the Newport Journal on the 6th. If publishers will use the "plates," which we do not advise except in cases of absolute necessity, we would suggest that they will at least examine them before allowing them to be published in their papers.

WILLIAM JONES, lessee of the Kentucky Penitentiary, has thrown up the sponge. He was to pay the State $100,000 for the institution for four years, but at the end of two he finds himself out $50,000. He gives as the reason for his loss that all the able-bodied convicts are hired out, leaving him the lame and the halt. The Commissioners will relet the institution as soon as practicable.

MRS. SCOVILLE, the worst crank of the Giteau family, writes to Dr. Hicks suggesting that the body of Giteau be sold at auction to the highest bidder to raise money to keep her and her child from starvation. She also says that the country made a great mistake when it sent the assassin to the Lord, and promises that the Giteau business has just begun.

A MAN has just been convicted by the U. S. Court at Boston of pension frauds, and sentenced to three years imprisonment, and to pay a fine of $500. If all the pensioners who have swindled the government in the matter of pensions could get their deserts, the jails and penitentiaries of the country would have to be enlarged to hold them.

A NEW JERSEY masher sued for breach-of-promise, acknowledged that he had agreed to marry the girl, but pleaded that as the contract was entered into on Sunday it was null and void. The Judge ruled, however, that was one of the contracts made on Sunday which is binding and the jury found for the damsel in a good round sum.

NOW THAT Giteau has been consigned to the tomb, it would be well for the President to pardon Sergeant Mason and let him go home to "Betty and the baby." True he was guilty of even a more cowardly act than Giteau, but he is in a measure excusable, since it is but human to want to kill a mean and worthless cur.

THE ATLANTA Constitution says: One of the Malley boys has gone to Saratoga for rest and recreation. This reminds us to say that it wouldn't be a bad idea for the acquitted criminals of America to hold a Summer convention at Saratoga.

THE Louisville Post is going out of its way to make attacks on Judge Owsley. The Post is a good paper, but an autopsy of its editor would reveal the fact that his spleen, like Giteau's, is double the normal weight.

REPORTS from Washington are to the effect that Bennett's appointment will not be confirmed. Senator Beck is being urged by the distillers all over the district to fight it to the bitter end.

JUDGE T. T. ALEXANDER has declared to become the republican candidate for Superior Judge in this district, and it is likely that our nominee, Maj. Richards, will have a walk over.

THE Boston Star says: "It is a natural law that heat expands, but it is a notable fact that nothing contracts the session of Congress like good hot weather."

JUDGE JERRE BLACK, in an interview, says the republican candidate for President next year will be Blaine, and the democratic, Gen. Hancock. The Judge showed considerable prophetic power, when in the Spring of 1880, he said before the matter was scarcely thought of by any one else, that Garfield would be the republican nominee but we hope he is wrong this time, at least so far as Gen. Hancock is concerned. He is a man of many noble traits of character but as a presidential candidate he is a failure. Give us Tilden or some other man representing a principle.

THERE are 2,345 convicts in the Illinois penitentiary. This is quite a number but it would be quadrupled if justice were meted out evenly in that State.

THE Conference Committee on the National Bank Charter extension have agreed, and the bill will at once become a law.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—There are 12,830,349 males of voting age in the United States.

—Failures last week throughout the country are reported at 109.

—The Atlanta and Chattanooga journals find who were going to fight a duel can not find each other.

—The President has promised W. Godfrey Hunter all the government aid in his power to secure his election.

—Three million five hundred thousand bushels of corn were sold within thirty minutes on call in Chicago on Thursday.

—The Other World, lately an evening newspaper of Louisville, has as might have been supposed, tucked its little toes under the daisies.

—Gay Smith, aged thirteen years, whom his father had punished for fighting with his brother, shot and killed his father, near Kirkwood, Mo.

—Frank M. Rawlins, Treasurer of Cheek Lodge, Knights of Honor, Louisville, has been held for further trial for embezzling about $1,000 of the funds of the Lodge.

—After a spirited contest, J. P. Elliott, of Nelson, was nominated Saturday as the democratic candidate to succeed Hon. C. M. Harwood, deceased, as State Senator.

—It is stated that a member and an ex-member of Congress from Louisiana are involved in the new Star-route cases which Mr. Merrick expects to present to the grand jury this week.

—The Attorney General of Tennessee gives it as his opinion that Matrimonial Associations are benevolent organizations, and not amenable to the laws that govern insurance associations.

—The Alabama greenbackers and independents met at Birmingham and nominated a State ticket headed by S. L. Sheffield for Governor. This ticket was subsequently endorsed by the Republican Convention.

—The cablegram from London, says: Five hundred fresh placards, offering $20,000 reward for the discovery of the murderers of Cavendish and Burke, were posted yesterday. Official returns now show 182 suspects in prison.

—Representative Willis, of Louisville, made a scathing attack upon the irresponsible John D. White, of Kentucky, in the House, answering White's charges of culpability in tossing a nickel to decide a Congressional nomination.

—There is no demand in the country for a reduction of the tax on whisky, beer and tobacco. There is a heavy demand for a great reduction of taxes on tools, clothing, machinery and scores of other taxed articles. (Louisville Courier-Journal).

—A Courier-Journal Frankfort special says Chas. Penn, a farmer, was assassinated Friday. Geo. Gaines, a neighbor suspected of the crime, can not be found. Penn was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Mary Owens, plaintiff in the Owens-Nuckolls suit.

—The Chicago Railway Age reports that 4,990 miles of railroad were built on 179 different lines between January 1st and July 30th. Of this the Middle States built 473; the Southern States, 665; Northwestern States, 2,379; Pacific States, 1,239. The New England States are credited with zero.

—A touching scene at Washington is said to have been lost to sight during the stir of the tragic events there. Conkling made a pilgrimage to the White House, and with a pathetic little speech, presented Arthur with one of the 300 medals which commemorated the queer transactions at Chicago in 1880.

—At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon Admiral Seymour notified the Egyptian authorities that the forts at Alexandria must surrender within twelve hours, or within twenty-four hours after the expiration of that time he would open fire upon them. England and France are hurrying men-of-war and troops to the scene of approaching hostilities.

—A dispatch from Moscow says General Skobelev, the Russian hero, died Friday of heart disease. He was the most famous military man of his age in the world. His escape from death in battle during the Turkish war was wonderful. He rode a white horse, and was very conspicuous and daring, and it was his fate, after taking astounding risks on many battle fields, to die in his bed.

—Charles Laughmer, recently released from his eighth term in the Pennsylvania penitentiary, where he has spent forty years of his life, is to return to his old quarters. Upon his recent release a philanthropist provided him with a good home for life, but last Friday he was caught robbing a cash drawer, and "a happy ending spread over his features as he was marched off to prison."

—One of Governor Blackburn's selections for that mysterious quality styled "executive clemency" turned up yesterday. It was a man who had been sentenced to the penitentiary for five years for an attempt to kill his wife. He was pardoned after a year's service, and on returning home dropped into his old habits. He attempted to entice his wife into the room yesterday to kill her, but failing in that killed himself. (Louisville Commercial).

—General E. P. Alexander, First Vice President of the Louisville and Nashville Railway, has resigned, and M. H. Smith has been chosen his successor. Mr. Smith has been Traffic Manager for some time.

—The artesian well at the Cincinnati Southern Railway Depot has now reached a depth of 840 feet. In sinking the well 240 feet a gain of five feet in depth of water has been made, which is extraordinary, and leads the engineer, Mr. Hirschauer, to believe that, when the thousand feet have been accomplished, if not before, the well will yield a powerful flow of water. (Lexington Special).

—Reports from the scene of the Mingo disaster, which occurred on the Ohio, July 4th, fix the number lost at one hundred and twenty-five persons. The search for bodies still continues, the Scioto not having been raised yet. The Lomas was running fifteen miles an hour and the Scioto twelve. The Scioto was valued at $10,000 and had a party to carry three hundred people. Captain Thomas is still reported very low, and his recovery with a sound mind is considered doubtful.

—The appropriation bills that have become laws and those now pending are the Pension Bill, $100,000,000; the Military Academy, $318,857.04; Fortification, $375,000; Consular and Diplomatic, $1,198,530; the Navy Bill, $15,351,996.70; the Postoffice, $43,529,300; Indian, 4,920,203.91; Army, $27,406,698; Legislative, Executive and Judicial, $19,777,627.90; District of Columbia, $3,411,797.08; Deficiency, $5,560,863.36; Sundry Civil, $23,680,865.06, amounting in all, as originally reported to House, to $245,477,732.05.

BOYLE COUNTY.

—License was issued last week for Jas. Edwards and Lulu Phillips to marry.

—Maj. Joseph Bronston, of Madison, was in Danville last week; Joey is tough.

—Miss Oids, of Lancaster, who has been under Miss Sandifer's guest has returned home.

—Camp meeting begins at High Bridge on Thursday. This will be "children's day." The meeting will be addressed by preachers of different denominations. An excursion train will leave Danville about 9 o'clock, A. M. Fare two cents per mile for the round trip.

—Mr. J. R. Carrigan, the architect, has completed the plans for the new Chapel for Caldwell College for young ladies. The building will be pushed rapidly to completion and it is thought will be ready for occupancy by the 1st of September, at which time the Fall and Winter term of the College commences.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. P. Cecil entertained a few gentlemen friends on Monday evening at their beautiful home on the Harrodsburg road, the occasion being Mr. Cecil's birthday. Those present were Dr. A. W. Johnson, Messrs. C. B. Anderson, D. T. Fackler, S. R. and Frank Cheek, Wm. Rue, Robert and Henry Evans, Richard Dunlap and Frank Gentry.

—Mr. W. F. Abraham, who lives three miles from Crab Orchard, on the C. O. and Stanford pike, came here this morning and identified the silver pitcher found in the possession of Walker Warren, col'd, now in jail for stealing jewelry from J. T. Shelton, of this county. Walker says he obtained the pitcher from a colored "gemin" who lives near Stanford. Walker proposes when he is released from captivity, to settle with all his detractors et cetera.

PULASKI COUNTY.

—Miss Adelle Peoples, of Stanford, was here during conference.

—The police dockets were crowded with business Monday, and the officers reaped a rich harvest.

—The grading and macadamizing of Mt. Vernon Street is almost completed. When finished it will be the best drive about town.

—The self-styled "king of lecturers" attracted a large crowd Tuesday night. It was a free thing, and the people flocked to hear his comic and eloquent remarks. Imagine their disgust when he proved to be an advertising agent.

—The District Conference of the M. E. Church South was in session last week. Its session extended over four days, and its proceedings were of a very interesting character. It is thought that through its influence, the old building, long a disgrace to this place, will be torn down and a neat structure put in its place.

—A fine game of base ball was played Friday between two strong picked nines. Our boys think they can select a nine from both able to beat any thing hereabouts. The score at the end of ten innings was 18 to 16, in favor of the nine captained by Borden. The following players composed the two sides: Borden, p.; Wm. Morrow, c.; M. Ingram, 1st b.; Snyder, 2d b.; Poach, 3rd b.; Tom Morrow, s.; Silvers, l. f.; Conant, c. f.; Walt, r. f.; Thomas, c.; Whitely, p.; Bash, 1st b.; Parker, 2nd b.; Ensel, 3rd b.; Tomlinson, s.; Wolfstein, r. f.; Webb, c. f.; Beddon, r. f.; Upsire, V. K. Logan; Scurer, J. G. Hall.

—LIGHTNING FREAKS.—In North Carolina the other day it struck and killed two babies that a father was holding on his knee; in Dakota it killed a man who was holding his wife in his lap; in Kentucky it struck a church and knocked nearly all the congregation senseless; in West Virginia it tore a large Newfoundland dog into small pieces; in Arkansas it struck the bow of a rowboat and split it to the keel; in Wisconsin it caught the tip of an umbrella, making the man who was carrying it think he was getting his section of the day of judgment, and rendering him a cripple for life—and all this in one week.

A man started in the livery stable business last week, and the first thing he did was to have a big sign painted, representing himself holding a mule by the bridle. "Is that a good likeness of me?" he asked of an admiring friend. "Yes, it is a perfect picture of you, but who is the fellow holding you by the bridle?"—[Texas Siftings].

A Canadian widow recently achieved local notoriety by marrying her daughter's widower eleven weeks after the death of her husband.

A COLLAR BUTTON'S ODD HISTORY.—A romantic history of a collar-button was related to us the other day. Several years ago Mr. P. W. Walton, of Eatontown, Ga., lost a gold collar-button. After a long and vain search he sighed heavily and heaved himself to bed. He had a long and useful companion. Its absence was accounted for in different ways, when in about two years it returned to its owner, after a journey fraught with many a weary apprehension. Mr. Walton had a fattened pet cow, and upon butchering the animal was surprised to find his companion of gold snugly, and, to all appearances, happily resting in the fat of the digestive organs. He at once recognized the button as the one he lost two years before, renewed the pleasant association which was so wantonly terminated, and is to-day in daily companionship with the button. It appeared that while feeding the button dropped from his shirt-collar into the feed, and in that way started on a historic journey. (Eatontown Chronicle).

ADJUSTING PRICES.—In the anti-bellum days, a New York State grocer raised the price of a certain grade of tea from "three shillings" to forty-five cents, and an old farmer who came in with a barrel of cider-vinegar to sell, could hardly credit his senses, when told that his favorite brand of tea had advanced several cents per pound.

"What on earth is the reason for this sudden raise?" he inquired.

"Scarcity of tea-chests," was the brief answer.

"Well, do you want my vinegar?"

"How much?"

"Eight cents a gallon."

"I only paid you seven for the last."

"Yes; but cider has riz, you see."

"What has brought cider up?" asked the astonished grocer.

"Scarcity of bung-hole plugs," was the quiet but serious reply.

They looked at each other without winking, and then tea dropped back to thirty-eight, and cider to seven cents. (Wall Street News).

THE HORSE SHOE AS A SYMBOL OF LUCK.—Question: Why is the horse-shoe regarded by some people as a sign of good luck? Answer: This notion is 500 years old, and, according to what we have been able to ascertain, it was derived from an old fable, that a demon in the form of a horse once appeared in England, and gave the people warning of an extensive conflagration which was about to occur. On this account the animal came to be regarded as especially friendly to mankind. His perspiration is said by some to be a cure for epilepsy; a horse's tooth carried in the pocket would prevent toothache, and a horse shoe placed under a child's pillow would save it from an attack of colic; one fastened against a building was a good insurance against fire, and finding one was a sign of good luck. Some of these notions are ridiculous. (Phren. Journal).

The first wife of Brigham Young died at Salt Lake last week. She became a convert to Mormonism at Avon, N. Y., in 1831, and went to the Mormon colony, then in Ohio, where she married Young. It is said that, having accepted the doctrine of polygamy, she made no opposition when her husband began to practice it extensively, though she invariably fell ill from excitement and grief at every new marriage. She lived separate from the other wives, and kept her five children as much as possible apart from the rest.

It is supposed that Alice Oates' new house, which she is building in Cincinnati, will cover two blocks and be eleven stories high. This supposition is based on the previous supposition, that she intends to provide room for all of her living husbands. (Denver Tribune).

The gambler lives on our hopes, the lawyer on our quarrels, the doctor on our ills, and the clergyman on our fears. The millennium will throw these people all out of employment. (Piscayune).

Cowardice asks, Is it safe? Expediency asks, Is it politic? Vanity asks, Is it popular? But Conscience asks, Is it right?
